

Author of the Week: Kedarnath Singh

Life and career:

Kedarnath Singh was an Indian poet who wrote in Hindi. He was also an eminent critic and essayist. He was awarded the Jnanpith Award (2013), Sahitya Akademi Award (1989) in Hindi for his poetry collection, Akaal Mein Saras (Cranes in Drought).

Kedar Nath Singh's poetry is characterized by simple, everyday language and images that string together to convey complex themes. One of his major poems is Bagh, a long poem with the tiger as its central character. Published in the mid-1980s, the poem remains one of the most widely read long poems in Hindi literature and is included in many university curricula.

At some level, Bagh bears a striking resemblance to Ted Hughes' Crow, but the two remain independent in their treatment and scope. "He was a poet of both presence and absence, of love and loss, of anxieties and questions...", said culture critic and poet Ashok Vajpayee.

Honours:

- Jnanpith award (2013)
- Sahitya Akademi award (1989)
- Kumaran Aashan
- Vyas Award
