

@babumoshoy Dear Pranab Mukherjee, they probably told you Rashtrapati Bhavan has 340 rooms. There's one more, the biggest in fact. Room for improvement.

FIRST EVEN IF IT IS THE LAST

SCOOP @ SIGHT

MANISH MISTRY

LAST BUT NOT THE LEAST

We'll call this photograph a collector's item. N R Narayana Murthy, founder and chairman emeritus of Infosys and the chief guest at the first convocation of IIT Gandhinagar on Saturday, was the last man in the convocation procession. Interestingly, while other institutions have the students coming in last, this ceremony had them walking in first. Must be the protocol, we think. That probably explains the confused look on his face. Preceding him was the chairman of the board of governors R A Mashelkar. In all, 86 students were awarded their degrees in Bachelor of Technology. Murthy exhorted the students to, "develop high aspirations in matters of public good," and pointed out that "aspirations build civilisations." The next crucial step, Murthy emphasised, is "to translate your aspirations into actions, "performance leads to recognition, recognition leads to respect, respect leads to power."