

IITGn to start summer prog on global health

Programme open for researchers, students, faculty, govt officials, to begin on Sunday

dna correspondent @dnaahmedabad

A four-week summer programme on 'Global Health and Development' is being organised by IITGn, in collaboration with University of Saskatchewan, Canada. It will commence on Sunday and is open for researchers, students, faculty and government officials. Participants from across the country are expected to gather at IITGN to discuss global health issues. Tannistha Samata, assistant professor, Humanities and Social Sciences said, "The summer programme, through pedagogy and research, will offer a unique opportunity to engage, empower and prepare young researchers in their global pursuit for a healthy, equitable and sustainable world for all. Through cutting edge research drawings from diverse social sciences and humanities disciplines, the programme will examine how the scientific community at large can contribute to a sharper understanding of the complex inter-linkages of health and development."

"We have invited researchers and

TOPICS

- Ethical concerns in health research
- Psychology & Global Health
- Health, Livelihoods and Economic Development
- Social Determinants of Health
- Global Health & Medical Tourism
- HIV/AIDS & Global Health Challenges

experts from leading places in India including Brookings India Center, J-PAL (Poverty Action Lab) South Asia, Indian Institute of Public Health (IIPH) and TATA Institute of Social Sciences (TISS)," she added.