

IIT-Gn to host int'l conference on cognition:

Indian Institute of Technology (IIT) Gandhinagar will host the 3rd international conference on Cognition, Brain and Computation from December 5 to 7. Cognitive science is an interdisciplinary field for study of mind and behavior using approaches from psychology, philosophy, artificial intelligence and neuroscience. IITGN faculty and convener of the event, Krishna Prasad Miyapuram said the conference aims to bring forward the interdisciplinary dialogue between neuroscience and computational approaches in study of cognition. "We hope to generate discussions and collaborations which cuts across disciplines and methodologies," he says. The conference will have participation from various universities from Canada, USA, Singapore, France, Japan and UK.
