COLLEGE: National Institute of Design

COURSE: Master of Product Design

BOOK: Devi

He was in the final year of chemical engineering course at Indian Institute of Technology, Gandhinagar (IIT-Gn) when he decided to act upon his passion for photography. He collaborated with his faculty member - Amapurna Rath to bring out a photo-poetry book titled 'Devi'.

He says, "I wanted to show how women influence our lives. I have seen how my mother treats me and how she is with others. Then there were girlfriends, aunts and teachers and how each one of them has played a significant role in my life."

His book starts with a picture of a newly born child and ends with that of the famous La Bella Aunty, and features 45 women who are achievers in their own right. It took two years to complete the book.

Now, a student of master of product design at NID, he wants to write another book - this time on design.
