

IIT-Gn, RSU to monitor Rath Yatra

---

The Indian Institute of Technology – Gandhinagar (IITGn) and Raksha Shakti University (RSU) faculty members and a student study the use of technology and communication in the annual chariot festival. Vikas Sahay, director general of RSU, said, “All preparations for Rath Yatra by city police, which include installation of CCTV cameras, communications tools and profiling of procession will be studied by two professors and one M Tech student of IIT-Gn along with a professor and two assistant professors of RSU. Professor Krishna Das of IIT-Gn said they will submit a report to improve synergy between technology and security during the procession next year.